HACCP (Hazard Analysis Critical Control Points) is an international principle defining the requirements for effective control of food safety. The HACCP system helps organisations focus on the hazards that affect food safety/hygiene and systematically identifies them by setting up critical control limits at critical points during the food production process.

This colour coded system, in 6 distinguishable colours, is the hygienic answer to eliminate cross-contamination in the kitchen, as recommended by experts in the catering sector. The concept behind the system is to use a different knife for preparing different types of food.

All models carry HACCP colours

Blue - for raw fish

Black - for general use

Brown - for salad and fruit

Green - for vegetables

Red - for raw meat

White - for dairy and bakery

Yellow - for cooked meats
